GARFIELD GUNNELL, HERE FROM PHILIPPINES, SEES SHIPLOAD OF COOLIES ON WAY TO FRANCE

The Philippine Islands are as truly American and as keenly patriotic as any part of the "states," according to Garfield Gunnell, U. S. customs officer of Manila, P. I., who is in Ogden. Mr. Gunnell is a son of Judge V. C. Gunnell. He is sojourning here for the first vacation of any length in sixteen years. During his absence, Mr. Gunnell has been in the islands as school teacher, journalist and customs officer. He has also toured the world since leaving Ogden. Mr. Gunnell contemplated coming to America on this trip by going through northern China, Siberia, Russia, and thence to New York but was not granted passports and permission by the government because of the precariousness of the trip. On a former trip home he left the islands and went through the Straits Settlements, via India, Egypt, Palestine, Europe, the British Isles and thence to New York.

Islands Enthusiastic.
"In the Philippines the spirit is very intense over America's participation in the war," he said, "and many of the people living there are very patriotic. After the declaration a wave of lively patriotism swept the islands and the natives and Americans there immediately started to help the government. A native organization of some 50,000 troops was immediately perfected and the services of this body tendered the United States for use in the war. Because the Filipino is naturally a tropical man and needs long and tedious training, the offer was not accepted. It was thought these troops would not endure fighting in the cold of France. The government appreciated the offer."

Liberty Loan Buyers.
"When the first liberty loan was announced, so enthusiastically did the Filipinos and Americans living in the islands embrace this opportunity to help the government, that the allotment was subscribed in Manila in the first two days."

Mr. Gunnell said he applied for a bond on the third day and found himself to be "out of luck." It has been about three months since he left the islands so he does not know how the present loan has been received.

"Before the war the Filipinos were clamoring for total independence, but since the war they have realized their true position and are quiet. The government has given local government and the Filipinos virtually rule themselves. The American governor of the islands is about the only check that United States places upon them and this is necessary because, after all, they are not yet at the stage of development and progress where they are entirely capable of self-government. Besides, they realize that since treaties are nothing but scraps of paper in the opinion of some aggressive nations, that their position under Uncle Sam's wing is more secure than it would be if they were alone.

"The school system in the islands is productive of a vast amount of good. The government has organized the schools on an extensive basis and is giving instruction in every department of the islands. But still there are not enough schools or teachers to take care of the approximate school population of 2,000,000 students. Consequently the schools are crowded at all times. The Filipino is eager to learn and proves an apt pupil. Laws compelling attendance would be a farce in the islands because the students crowd the buildings until there is no room and many have to be sent away. All instruction is given in English and the youngsters rapidly acquire a fair command of the language. There are several dialects in the islands but many of the American teachers learn them and can speak quite fluently in the native.

"The Filipinos are loyal to the United States. They are as loyal as any of its citizens. I should venture to say. They have been treated with the utmost kindness and consideration by this government and cannot find fault. Local offices in the government and positions wherever possible have been given to natives and this has built up a spirit of co-operation and union that is resulting in a closer and stronger bond between the two countries."

Mr. Gunnell remarked especially on the growth of Ogden and stated that the city had undergone a considerable change for the better since he was here.

"Seattle, Portland and numerous other coast cities, which I have seen," he said, "seem to grow overnight enormously but I notice in Ogden that steady, substantial growth which seems no rebound and which spells general progress and prosperity."

On the boat on which Mr. Gunnell sailed from the islands were 1500 coolies from Northern China, who were being taken to Europe to be used as laborers in France. This number was part of an immigration of 300,000 going to France for the period of the war to perform agricultural and industrial work wherever they could be used. They were landed at Vancouver, B. C., and placed immediately on waiting trains and started across the continent to New York where they are to take ship for France. The coolies have been recruited in Northern China and allowed to sign contracts for three years of work at $11 per month. This is the provision France is making to care for her critical labor situation.

Mr. Gunnell plans to spend a few months in Ogden visiting his father and resting and will probably then return to the islands in the customs service.

SEAT SALE ON FOR ANNA HELD TODAY

Anna Held, one of the greatest stage stars of all time, comes to the Ogden theatre next Thursday night with her musical comedy success, "Follow Me." This is credited with being the biggest and best attraction in which this popular star has ever appeared. The seat sale opens today.

Manager Goss of the Orpheum has received highly congratulatory notices from several eastern cities where the attraction has been lauded as one of the very best in years. The production comes complete with its three gorgeous scenes, designed by Miss Held herself, just as it appeared as a new triumph for the famous French artist at the Casino, New York. Advertisement.

CARLOAD OF LEAD ORE FROM BIG PINE COMPANY

The Big Pine Mining company, of which Ogden men make up the directorate, is shipping a high grade of lead ore from the mine, located three and one-half miles north of Saline, on the Southern Pacific. The officers and directors of the company are: O. H. Mohlman, president; Fred Meissner, vice president; J. S. Lewis, secretary and treasurer. These three, with C. H. Smith and George W. Gwilliam, form the board of directors.

Mr. Lewis stated this morning that the shaft of the mine had reached a depth of 71 feet and that the company is making a shipment of a carload of ore at the present time. This ore will run between 15 and 20 per cent lead.

There are five men working for the company, which has established living quarters for them and made preparations to maintain steady work.

Extension Work
FOR THE TEACHERS

Professor L. A. Quilley, of the extension division of the University of Utah, will meet the Ogden teachers interested in advanced work in English this evening at the Central Junior High school. Teachers interested in modern social problems will meet with Principal Owen A. Beal of Weber college at the same place and at the same hour. Classes in both branches will be organized. They will be open to the general public.

The extension division of the university will also send instructors here for work in art, French, ethics, philosophy of nature, elementary psychology, logic, genetic psychology and methods of teaching, if there proves to be a demand for such work.

Theatres

AT THE ALHAMBRA.

Ogden theater goers who saw Geraldine Farrar in "The Woman God Forgot" at the Alhambra last night, saw a notable motion picture as has been shown here in some time. Praise of this great picture may be equally divided between the star and her supporting cast and scenery and costume. It is a wonderful picture.

The scenic effects for this picture are massive and magnificent. The costumes are lavish in every detail and the entire production is worthy of the director, Cecil B. DeMille.

A Mack Sennett comedy, "Roping Her Romeo," featuring the inimitable Polly Moran and Ben Turpin, furnished the laughs. These two funsters are being starred in a great many of the Sennett comedies.

APPLES AND PAPERS GIVEN TO THE SOLDIERS

The Ogden chapter of the Red Cross had an opportunity of filling its function as an aid to the soldiers when on Saturday and Sunday troop trains stopped at Ogden. Women of the organization and officers met each train at the depot and gave the boys a reception which they will remember for some time. Newspapers, magazines, apples and other gifts were given each car of soldiers and the boys expressed their delight in hearty terms to the local people who met them. This is the first time, they said, that they had been treated with so much consideration and kindness since leaving their mobilization centers.

A box of tasty Jonathan apples was supplied each car of soldiers by the Red Cross. Twenty newspapers were also placed in each car. The papers were up to date. Magazines, such as the Saturday Post and Courier's and other timely periodicals were also distributed in each car so that the boys would have plenty of reading material of a good nature. In addition to this the members of the Red Cross collected scores of letters and postcards which had been written by the boys and mailed them, as the soldiers were given slight opportunity for doing this.

The soldier boys en route to the training camp at Lila Vista from different parts of the western country are making the best of their time in getting all the enjoyment there is out of a trip such as they are making. Yesterday a train carrying 500 men from Camp Funston, Kansas, passed through Ogden. The soldiers were here for more than an hour. They were quickly lined up on the station platform and taken at "double quick" up and down the tracks, until they were all aglow with energy. Then they went through setting-up exercises, to give them the necessary exercise to keep them from overflowing with pent-up energy.

They are a part of the last draft quotas. While some of them had complete equipment, they were, on the whole, without uniforms. They will not be fully attired as soldiers until they reach Camp Kearny.

RED CROSS ELECTION IS BEING HELD AT CITY HALL

This is the day for the annual election of the officers and directors of the American Red Cross for the ensuing year. There are five directors, besides a president, vice president, secretary and treasurer to be elected at the ball box in the City hall between the hours of 2 and 8 p. m. today.

The election is open to all the members of the local chapter. Ogden will realize the importance of this election and take time and pains to do their full duty and vote.

At the annual meeting of the members tonight at 8 o'clock in the City hall, reports will be received from the various departments of the work. Each and every committee is expected to make a full report of the activities of the year. There will also be reports from the treasurer and president as well as a secretary's report.

The great feature of the meeting will be the talk given by Mr. Oxley, the western manager of the Red Cross. Mr. Oxley is a speaker of much ability and will be worth anybody's while to hear. He will tell just what the people desire and if he does not, there will be an opportunity for any to ask questions so that all problems and difficulties which anyone has may be cleared up. This will be an exceptional opportunity for the people of Ogden to learn at first hand the real condition and work of the great national movement.

The meeting at 8 o'clock is for all. It matters not whether you are a member of the Red Cross.

LICENSE NECESSARY TO CARRY ON MEAT BUSINESS

Ogden dealers in meat, doing a business of $100,000 a year or over, including packing plants, warehouses and wholesalers, have been notified that they must make application for a government license before Thursday or they will be closed out of business by Uncle Sam.

Application for the license must be made to the "Law Department of the License Department, U. S. Food Administration, Washington, D. C.," and the application must reach headquarters by November 1, by mail or wire. This license is part of the government's plan for checking up on meat consumption and tracing large sales.

THE HOOVER electric SUCTION SWEEPER

Saves a woman's time and strength, enabling her to perform her patriotic duties

Women can help in many ways to win the war if they are not chained down to their homes with housework. Modern labor-saving devices are, therefore, a necessity in every home.

There is preserving and canning to be done—to increase our food supply. The Red Cross needs more helpers. Every woman should be knitting, making bandages, etc. Women can help to take the places of men if they have a few spare hours each day.

A Hoover will enable any woman to retain her reputation as a neat housekeeper and yet so spare her time and strength that she can rally to the nation's aid in many ways.

To those who do not wish to pay cash, we will sell a Hoover on easy terms.

LIBERTY LOAN REACHES MARK

Subscription Totals Being Tabulated by Banks—Grand Total to Be Published Nov. 1.

THURSDAY LAST DAY
Twenty-six Thousand Banks
Busy Adding Millions That Rolled in Saturday.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—Further figures showing Liberty loan subscription totals, the treasury department announced today, will not be made public here until November 1. This decision was reached when it became apparent that the federal reserve banks would be unable to make more than approximate returns before that time.

There was nothing today at the treasury on which to base an estimate of the grand total of subscriptions. It was assumed that the banks were busy tabulating the totals which rolled in by the millions Saturday, the final day of the campaign. Officials reasserted their belief that the loan had passed $5,000,000,000.

Next Thursday is the last day upon which banks may make returns. All subscription agencies, including the 26,000 banks in the country, are required by the treasury to have their subscription lists and the 2 per cent of subscriptions required with bonds applications in the hands of the reserve banks not later than that date.

SHORT TIME CERTIFICATES
WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—The third day's subscription to the government's latest offering of short time certificates of indebtedness of indefinite amount was $20,455,000, making a total subscription thus far to the issue of $395,241,000. The subscription books are still open.

CANNERS TO BE UNDER LICENSE

Special Regulations in Canned Goods to Be Effective November 1.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—Special regulations to prevent speculation in canned goods will be put into operation November 1 by the food administration. All canners will be placed under license and forbidden to make future sales of canned corn, peas, tomatoes, salmon and sardines before February 10.
